Her adult art classes and workshops are run through Gulf Coast Community College Encore Program (Gulf/Franklin and Bay County campuses), Gulf Alliance of Local Arts, Panama City Beach Senior Center, ArtCoop, and various other commercial venues.

Heather generously donates her art and instruction to local charities and fundraisers.

Dedicated to the success of local art and artists, Heather's articles are published in Bay Arts Magazine. She has served on the board of Panama City Artists for 5 years, and is the President Elect for 2009. As a founding member and Creative Director of ArtCoop: creative collective for visual, literary, and performing artists (2004-present), Heather's goal is to make local art and art experiences available to all of the community.
